

SUMMARY OF DEMOCRATIC AUDIT BOUNDARY CHANGE SIMULATION

Lewis Baston, June 2011

(Version 2 – contains revised details for Warrington seats)

This simulation considers the potential impact of changes to constituency boundaries to be drawn up by the Boundary Commissions for England, Scotland, Wales and Northern Ireland. This simulation provides an indication of the extent to which existing constituency boundaries will need to change and a broad indication of the likely partisan effects.

The four Boundary Commissions, which are fully independent of government and the political parties, will issue their proposals from September 2011 onwards. At least some of the local detail of the proposals to be published by the Boundary Commissions will inevitably differ from that published here.

However, given the rules to be applied, the clear regional impacts of seat reductions, and existing geographical concentrations of Labour and Conservative support, the party political impacts of the Boundary Commissions' proposals are unlikely to vary considerably from our findings.

SCOTLAND

Note: Attributions of ‘party status’ are particularly risky in Scotland – the status given here is with reference to how the seat would have been at the 2010 Westminster election. The 2011 Scottish election saw many supposedly ‘safe’ seats fall to the SNP and if those voting patterns were repeated in 2015 on these constituency boundaries the result would be a similar SNP whitewash.

ABOUT DEMOCRATIC AUDIT

Democratic Audit is an independent research organisation, established as a not-for-profit company, and based at the University of Liverpool. Our core objective is to advance education, and to undertake and promote research into, the quality and effectiveness of UK democracy. We are grant funded by the Joseph Rowntree Charitable Trust to conduct research into the quality of democracy in the UK and are currently conducting the fourth full Audit of UK democracy (the previous three Audits were published in 1996, 1999 and 2002). We also monitor democracy and freedom in Britain through a series of democracy assessments, reports and commissions, and through evidence to Parliament and official bodies. The Director of Democratic Audit is Dr Stuart Wilks-Heeg, who is also a Senior Lecturer in Social Policy at the University of Liverpool.

We seek to produce research which adheres to the highest academic standards, while also being written and presented in an accessible and engaging manner. Our audience encompasses politicians, policy-makers, academics, journalists and the general public. The findings of our research are made publicly available, usually free of charge, and widely disseminated, with the intention of maximising the public benefit of our work. We have no affiliation with, or receive any funding from, any political party in the UK or elsewhere.

For further information about Democratic Audit, please see our website:

<http://www.democraticaudit.com/>

ABOUT THE AUTHORS

The main author of projection is Lewis Baston, with assistance from Kevin Larkin.

Lewis has been Senior Research Fellow at Democratic Audit since July 2010. His principal areas of expertise are electoral systems, constitutional reform, the history of elections, boundaries and redistricting and devolution. Before joining Democratic Audit Lewis was Director of Research at the Electoral Reform Society and had worked at ERS since 2003. From 1998 to 2002 he was a research fellow at the Centre for the Understanding of Society and Politics (CUSP) at Kingston University.

For further information about Lewis and his work, please visit his website:

The full ward-by-ward detail of the Democratic Audit boundary modelling will be made available in due course.
